

Abstract of the Disclosure

5       An entertainment card includes a depiction of a person on one side of the card. A transparent window is formed in the card at a location which includes a portion of the anatomy of the depicted person which has a crease-like area such as the buttocks or breasts. The absent portion of the anatomy is replaced by a user's digit being pressed against the window to simulate the absent portion in an appearance of bare skin.

10